

TEAM VALOR REINSTITUTES ANNUAL CONTEST AMONG EXISTING CLIENTS, WINNER TO CORRECTLY PREDICT NUMBER OF TEAM VALOR WINS IN 2009, FIRST PRIZE IS 5-PERCENT OWNERSHIP OF ANY HORSE SYNDICATED IN 2010

Let's face it—times suck. Everybody could use a little pick me up right about now. So to facilitate a cheerier mood during the next racing season, Team Valor International will reinstitute a little contest we will call "Follow the Valor."

Admittedly, it sounded a tad better when Barry Irwin first dreamed up the contest while running the predecessor of Team Valor that was named Clover Racing Stables. So the contest's original name of "Follow the Clover" had a better ring to it. But the thrust remains the same.

Here's how it works: any existing client as of the end of January 2009 is eligible to enter the contest. Participants simply send an e-mail to Amy Collingsworth at teamvalor2@aol.com stating the number of winning races Team Valor International will amass during the 2009 racing season. Also state the total amount of stable earnings for next season, because if there are any ties, earnings will be used to determine the winner. Ties have occurred, so try to be mindful of this. One year, one of those tying for first had a figure of about $7.9 million, which is more than twice than the stable's record!

Note of caution: since this contest is strictly limited to Team Valor racing partners, Team Valor solely reserves the right to interpret the rules for the winning client. If nobody accurately predicts the number of wins, Team Valor in its own discretion will determine the winner using what ever methods it considers to be fair. First prize is a 5-percent interest in any horse syndicated in 2010 for a cost of $1 million or less.

Barry Irwin said "We are doing this to generate some enthusiasm at a time when it is needed. But there is a downside to this from an historical perspective for Team Valor, because invariably once a partner wins and receives a horse for free, the check-writing hand of that worthy suffers a paralysis that renders them unable to bring themselves to buy another one in the future. So we are not only giving up a 5-percent interest in a horse, we are most likely going to lose a good client in the process. Although it is not mandatory, complete, up-to-date medical insurance is advised for all participants in the contest"

Team Valor International in 2008 won 67 races and earned $3,548,761. The stable has earned more than $3 million in 4 of the last 6 years. Team Valor currently has about 250 registered racing partners that live in most of the states in the U. S. A., as well as foreign-based clients in such locales as South Africa, the United Arab Emirates, Japan, Hong Kong and various countries in Europe.

In 2008 the stable won races in the United States, South Africa, France, Germany and England.
